1777, Envelope addressed to Frederick Bland from Richard Callis.
29 Wunde

La Col. Theodrick Blanc
1st Regt. L D

Head Quarters
1795: Envelope, Richmond postmark.
1779, April 2, fragmentary letter
Dear Sir,

April 2nd, 1779

You complain in your letter to my mother of my not writing to you since you left Virginia. I think with great reason, but be assured it has not been from want of regard or inclination. You know Brimey-Weck is an out of the way place for Travelers; it's by accident if ever heard of any person going to Philadelphia. I should have wrote you if Col. R. Mead had not set off a week sooner than expected. We have been entertained with Congress having the very important news from Europe. Place upon tolerable terms which was to have been accomplished last Saturday the 27. March in every State. In consequence of which the Merchants shut up their Stores. They fell from 23. 10 to 21. 0. C. indeed they
This document has been declassified with me! To reveal solution.

...my life, how much you are harmed of love.

...he is returning to his former self. This is not

...the moment he has been waiting for. His

...from the moment the door opened. Grandma

...in the corner, waiting for me. She has been

...the moment he saw her. She was waiting for

...her, but now he is alone. She has left him.

...seen and heard of this. She never

...and never seen her before. She was

...and never thought it was true.

...and has been waiting for him. She

...been waiting for him. She has

...been waiting for him. She has

...been waiting for him. She has

...been waiting for him. She has

...been waiting for him. She has

...been waiting for him. She has

...been waiting for him. She has

...been waiting for him. She has

...been waiting for him. She has