WANTED--AN OWNER FOR THIS OLD LOCKET
Was Captured During The War And Taken To The North—Heirs Of Soldier Would Return It.

During the Civil War, and at or after the Battle of Antietam, 1862, a soldier, member of the Forty-first Ohio Regiment, came into possession of a beautiful old miniature of the Colonial period. He took it home with him as part of the spoils of war. It has remained in the possession of his family, and now one of the members feels that it should be returned to the original owner. In order to find the possible clue to this ownership, photographs have been sent to the Maryland Society of the Colonial Dames of America asking that every effort would be made to bring it to the notice of residents in Maryland.

The photographs shown here have been taken from the miniature and also from the enameled back of the gold case, which shows a device of an gown and leaves. Any information regarding this valuable miniature can be sent to Mrs. William Reed, president of the Maryland society, 512 Park Avenue.

State News
The Charleston Ambulance Corps, numbering 119, under the captaincy of Dr. T. L. Barber, who organized the corps, are in training at Camp Meade, Md. They had given them by the Red Cross Chapter of the city two fully equipped ambulances.

Dr. C. L. Holland of Fairmont, accompanied by his wife, has gone to Bos.
MEMORIAL FOR JOHN BRADFORD.

The first newspaper published west of the Allegheny mountains was printed in Lexington by John Bradford.

This paper was the "Kentucke Gazette" and it first appeared on the 8th of August, 1787. The type and other equipment used in printing his initial number of the pioneer newspaper of what was then the West was bought in Philadelphia, floated down the Ohio river to Limestone, near Mayville, and transported thence on pack horses to Lexington, after a journey of a month.

Wandering bands of Indians, swollen streams and fallen trees so impeded the progress of Bradford and his companions from the Ohio river to the settlement at Lexington that the type, in the language of the craft, was badly "plied" en route and it was rather a crippled printing plant which was finally set up for business in the log cabin "opposite the court house" at the intersection of Main and Broadway.

Two years ago the editor of The Leader, addressing the members of the Kentucky Press Association, then in session in this city, suggested that the association could do no better thing that erect somewhere, preferably in Lexington, a monument or memorial to John Bradford, the first Kentucky editor. The suggestion was received with great favor but, in the absence of direct personal effort on the part of interested men, no effort was made to carry it into effect.

Recently there has been a revival of interest in the proposition to erect a memorial to this useful man and pioneer printer and editor and there is now a promise of a success.

It is suggested that it would be fitting to place a handsome bronze tablet to the memory of John Bradford in the Public Library, where the files of the old Kentucke Gazette, his newspaper, are deposited, and that the funds needed to secure the tablet be raised by a popular subscription in which the school children of Lexington will have a large share.

Let us therefore have "The John Bradford Memorial Association," and let it be the means not only of teaching the children of Lexington something of the history of their State but of instilling in them a deeper gratitude for the labors of the men and women who braved the wilderness and laid the foundations for the civilization which is a common heritage.

Records Show Women Stole Washington's Clothes During Swim

Fredericksburg, Va., Feb. 20 (AP)—Chester D. Godrick, local historian, announced today that in pouring over old records he discovered that George Washington once had his clothes stolen while swimming in the Rappahannock river.

"We found records," he said, "that show two women were found guilty of stealing the clothes while he was swimming near his home. Redd foul of Cleveland, Ohio, for the sum of $65,000. Mr. Bunch has purchased the property for his son who will assume charge January 1. "Ben Lomond" is one of the largest estates in this section of Virginia. It is composed of 1,932 acres, lying in Prince William and Fairfax counties.
The Great Masters of Medicine

The GREAT DOCTORS. A Biographical History of Medicine.

It is an inspiring procession of men that marches through the pages of Dr. Sigerist's book. It is a procession of men whose achievements fascinated, whose lives and labors move to the realization of the health, the borrowing of the age, the triumph of the race. It is a procession that will live in the imagination of the ages to come.

Dr. Sigerist, a German physician formerly of Leipzig, has broken new ground in his history of medicine, and by presenting it in a series of biographies and so successfully has he accomplished his task that it will not need re-reading for any long time. His book is a masterpiece of medical history by presenting it in a series of biographies and so successfully has he accomplished his task that it will not need re-reading for any long time. Dr. Sigerist, a German physician formerly of Leipzig, has broken new ground in his history of medicine, and by presenting it in a series of biographies and so successfully has he accomplished his task that it will not need re-reading for any long time. His book is a masterpiece of medical history by presenting it in a series of biographies and so successfully has he accomplished his task that it will not need re-reading for any long time.

The book is a masterpiece of medical history by presenting it in a series of biographies and so successfully has he accomplished his task that it will not need re-reading for any long time. His book is a masterpiece of medical history by presenting it in a series of biographies and so successfully has he accomplished his task that it will not need re-reading for any long time. His book is a masterpiece of medical history by presenting it in a series of biographies and so successfully has he accomplished his task that it will not need re-reading for any long time.

The book is a masterpiece of medical history by presenting it in a series of biographies and so successfully has he accomplished his task that it will not need re-reading for any long time. His book is a masterpiece of medical history by presenting it in a series of biographies and so successfully has he accomplished his task that it will not need re-reading for any long time.

The book is a masterpiece of medical history by presenting it in a series of biographies and so successfully has he accomplished his task that it will not need re-reading for any long time. His book is a masterpiece of medical history by presenting it in a series of biographies and so successfully has he accomplished his task that it will not need re-reading for any long time.

The book is a masterpiece of medical history by presenting it in a series of biographies and so successfully has he accomplished his task that it will not need re-reading for any long time. His book is a masterpiece of medical history by presenting it in a series of biographies and so successfully has he accomplished his task that it will not need re-reading for any long time.

The book is a masterpiece of medical history by presenting it in a series of biographies and so successfully has he accomplished his task that it will not need re-reading for any long time. His book is a masterpiece of medical history by presenting it in a series of biographies and so successfully has he accomplished his task that it will not need re-reading for any long time.

The book is a masterpiece of medical history by presenting it in a series of biographies and so successfully has he accomplished his task that it will not need re-reading for any long time. His book is a masterpiece of medical history by presenting it in a series of biographies and so successfully has he accomplished his task that it will not need re-reading for any long time.

The book is a masterpiece of medical history by presenting it in a series of biographies and so successfully has he accomplished his task that it will not need re-reading for any long time. His book is a masterpiece of medical history by presenting it in a series of biographies and so successfully has he accomplished his task that it will not need re-reading for any long time.

The book is a masterpiece of medical history by presenting it in a series of biographies and so successfully has he accomplished his task that it will not need re-reading for any long time. His book is a masterpiece of medical history by presenting it in a series of biographies and so successfully has he accomplished his task that it will not need re-reading for any long time.

The book is a masterpiece of medical history by presenting it in a series of biographies and so successfully has he accomplished his task that it will not need re-reading for any long time. His book is a masterpiece of medical history by presenting it in a series of biographies and so successfully has he accomplished his task that it will not need re-reading for any long time.

The book is a masterpiece of medical history by presenting it in a series of biographies and so successfully has he accomplished his task that it will not need re-reading for any long time. His book is a masterpiece of medical history by presenting it in a series of biographies and so successfully has he accomplished his task that it will not need re-reading for any long time.

The book is a masterpiece of medical history by presenting it in a series of biographies and so successfully has he accompl
1650000000000000000000

Theater That Crew

By Adele Cushman Noyes

Little theater that crew

I don't know where it is 1966

They say it's another My

These are pictures of the play

First performance in the yard.

A play in the yard.

The Yard is the crew.

On September 1966 the play was

The Yard is the crew.

On September 1966 the play was

The Yard is the crew.

On September 1966 the play was

The Yard is the crew.

On September 1966 the play was

The Yard is the crew.