Merry Christmas to Dr. Miller - and household! - that covers it, doesn’t it?

The warmth of welcome that waits you will melt this snow very quickly. Hope to see you soon.

My dear Doctor Miller:

How very kind of you to send me the data on the dental books! I certainly appreciate it, and hope that I may someday be able to return your courtesy in someway, someday.

I wrote to Mrs. Crummer this morning, and told her that you were in here a few days ago.

Thanking you again,

Dear Sir:

Yale's gratitude to each of the subscribers to the Yale Endowment Fund has been repeatedly expressed by the President and recorded more than once in the permanent records of the University; so that I scarcely need to preface this communication in regard to your pledge by an assurance of our appreciation of your cooperation in making this.

I do, however, wish to emphasize again and in my turn how much your help has meant to Yale, and to tell you that we shall naturally be all the more grateful to you if you will send to us on or before December 15th a remittance to cover payment due on the pledge which you were good enough to make to the Yale Endowment Fund, payable in installments on December 15th each year, as shown in the memorandum below. As you will realize, the University has, in the preparation of its budget for this year, counted on the income from January 1st next on payments due this December, so that our ability to meet certain expenditures already incurred depends upon our receipt of further payments on subscriptions to the Yale Endowment Fund.

In case any subscriber cannot for any reason make payment in full at this time of the amount due on his subscription, the officers of the University will be grateful if he will, if possible, now make a payment on account of any balance due on his pledge; and if he will in any event write to me as Treasurer on receipt of this notice and advise me as to the date next spring, preferably prior to March 15th, on which he can remit the sum due at this time on his subscription.

We shall appreciate to the utmost your cooperation in this matter, and shall be glad to have you simply return this letter, if this will be a convenience to you, in forwarding your cheque or in advising us of the date of the next payment to be made on your pledge.

Faithfully yours,

Dear Sir,

Many thanks for your kind order which has been posted to you. Invoice is enclosed with the book.

It is pleasing to hear that my catalogues are enjoyed – trade is certainly bad, and the best is to stick it out and hope for an improvement, which surely must come soon.

The quotation on back wrapped is from Rabelais, Gargantua & Pantagruel, prologue to Book 2 – one of the greatest moral full-blooded and rousing books ever written. The only kindred spirit in English is Sterne.
With reference to the item you have purchased, I should be grateful if you would tell me whether old books appeal to you most when unrestored, or if you prefer to receive them after they have been cleaned, refoldeed, and refurbished, etc.

I dislike tampering with an old book, but I must obviously do what pleases best the purchaser. What is your feeling in the matter?

Yours faithfully,

Dear Sir,

Many thanks for cheque £6.6.0 and order. Nos. 136-139 have been sent to you red post, but 2166 Kirani is sold. I had more orders for that book than any other in the catalogue.

I shall, in future, repair my books before cataloguing, but I have always had a strong prejudice against tampering with an old book — a sentiment carried to excess. Another trouble in accurate description is the dealer's fear of losing a sale; I try conscientiously to give every detail that matters, but in the case of lithotomica vesicae an exact description would above read — "binding rubbed, torn and frayed at edges, holes in spine, considerable chipping here and there."
Under these circumstances, you would conceivably have visualised a horrible rag of a book only fit for the ash-bin. I should have lost a sale and you would have lost a purchase.

It is very difficult and I am becoming more and more inclined to only buy books when they can be described as "fine"—but unfortunately with 16th and 17th cent. items it is none too easy.

The other day I was offered Harvey "Circulation of the Blood," 1653, 1st English ed. rebacked, a nice copy, but the price asked was £10.

I am hoping trade is improving—the mail that brought you folder today read the best I have had—orders from libraries that have obviously been held back. I have found New York and N.Y. State distinctly good, but the other states have been terrible. Illinois and California particularly so.

And if there are any special books you want I should be glad to try and hunt them out for you.

I'm still busy. Yours sincerely, E. M. Reed.

Thank you.
Dear Sir,

Thank you! And for your good wishes.

Item 194 has been posted — a very rare little book. I hope to have another and ready in March, but books when interesting are becoming difficult to find. The London sales have been very poor lately, fad and uninteresting, with high prices paid for any rarity.

Last week I tried to buy Gancedo "Jewel of Health" 1576, but it brought £20, and none too good a copy.

Again thanking you,
yours faithfully,

My dear Dr. Miller:

The photographs came to-day, and needless to say I am delighted. The delay has only added to the satisfaction of having them. Anyway I am the last person in the world to encourage you as I am quite as guilty about answering letters.

You failed to mention the cost of having the copies made. Please let me know and I will mail you a check.

Yes, I hope to have the Davis miniature copied in color. You did not give his complexion but I presume the artist will know from the color of hair and eyes.
I have sent for photographs of the portraits of Sir William Mosley, Lady Mosley and Arthur Mosley—my mother's people, so I am asking what quite a few of my ancestors looked like.
I shall write the Postmaster of New Albany, Indiana a letter, if he can locate Mrs. M. Intonk for some of her descendants. Thanks as much for the information. Please accept many, many thanks for every thing.

Cordially yours,

Dear Dr. Miller:

Thank you very much indeed for your letter of June 21 and the information therein contained.

I shall see to it that the correspondence which you have loaned Mrs. Crummer is returned to you in due course.

It is planned to have the Crummer memorial volume which is to be entitled "A Doctor's Odyssey" off the press in September or October. It is being done by the Johns Hopkins Press, although printed under my eye out here in Los Angeles by a printer, who has been recognized by the American Institute of Graphic Arts. Mr. Thomas Perry Stricker. I hope to make it a worthwhile volume not only in contents but in appearance.

Mrs. Crummer returned from her European trip in January and was in February married to Mr. William H. Ingram, an old-time friend of both Dr. Crummer and herself, of Paris, where he had been for more than thirty years the representative of the Canadian Press Association. They are living here in Los Angeles, and I am happy to report that the combination seems a very successful one.

With renewed thanks, believe me

Sincerely yours,

A. G. Beaman

Dear Dr. Miller,

Many thanks for your interesting letter of the 25th. I have, of course, long known of the Miller Collection in the Richmond Academy, and read with considerable interest of your current collecting interests.

I am pleased that you liked the DRAKE, and shall let you know should we come upon the Second Series, 1854, which, incidentally and illogically, is a good deal more rare than the first. In fact, the only copy we have had is the one in our private Drake group.

In scanning our stock for early English items which might be of interest to you, I refer you to the following, which you may care to acquire, if not already in your collection:

Catalogue No. 3. Item 28, BOORDE (I note you have the 1587 edition in a fine original binding, but you may care to examine this earlier rare edition).

Catalogue No. 3. Item 170. LOWE (Here also I note you have the 1654 edition).
May 5, 1938.

Mr. Henry Schuman,
Detroit, Mich.

Dear Sir:

Thanks for your letter in re old English medical texts you have for sale.

Owing to limited finances I have never gone in for collecting several editions of the same work or for first editions in particular, and since 1929, two bank failures, passed dividends, and other investments wiped out altogether, has limited my spending for unnecessary things very much, putting such inclinations entirely out.

As to earlier editions of Boorde, I had the 1557 edition which I sent to Richmond, and kept the 1587 for my own collection. I do happen to have two copies of the Venner (one given me by a collecting friend after I had one already). One is the 1628, and the other the 1638-37 edition, with separate title pages for the sections on 'The Bathe's of Bath' and the 'Treatise concerning The taking of the Fume of Tobacco'.

Although my copy of the 1654 Lewe in fine condition and a beautiful Riviere binding of brown calf is a most desirable copy, it of course is not as rare as the 1634 edition, but I simply cannot afford it, without cut giving up other items of which I would not have a copy of any edition.

On looking up my copy of the Gold Headed Cane after your letter arrived, I found that I sent the 1628 edition to Richmond and kept the 1627 in the original blue boards, in fine condition except the blue paper back strip is somewhat frayed at the top and bottom.

Also have a fine copy of the 1651 Primrose 'Popular Errors, with the engraved title, end papers, and original calf sides. It has been skillfully rebacked to match the sides.

Most of my old books come from England, and many of the dealers there from whom I have bought books for many years frequently write me about some rare and unusual item before it is later offered in their catalogues, for example yesterday a London dealer offered to send me unappreciative a rare 1630 edition (only two copies known to the editors of the Short Title Catalogue) of two old 16th century works, all editions being rare, but as it as not an important 16th century text, I think his price is too high, and am not asking him to send it. It would be alright if I did not have to be so very conservative in my buying at present.

Thanking you again for your courtesies, I am,

Very Truly Yours,
Dear Dr. Miller,

I have much pleasure in sending you particulars of another early English medical book which I believe will interest you. It is Valentinus' "Enchiridion Medicum: Containing An Epitome of the Whole Course of Physicke" 1612.

This is a very rare book and only two copies are recorded in the Short Title Catalogue. There is also an auction record of a copy sold in London in June 1936 for £36. Of the 1608 edition only one copy is known, that in the Cambridge University Library.

I enclose particulars with this letter, and shall be glad to send the book for your inspection should you wish to see it.

Dear Dr. Miller,

I have much pleasure in sending you particulars of a very interesting seventeenth century medical book which I have just obtained. It is Ralph Williams "Physical Rarities" 1651.

I enclose brief particulars, and should you care to see the book, I shall be glad to send it for your inspection.
